It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelops the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, leading to a fatal termination. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed, even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box CATARRHAL SOLVENT and one IMPROVED INHALER, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions, price $1.00.

WASHINGTON.

Several Minor Appropriations for Oregon Improvements.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE BILL.

A Report that the President will Sign It—Congressman Cox's Illness Serious—Manning's Rumored Retirement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Among the new items inserted by the senate committee in the sundry civil bill and which have not been reported are $10,000 for a salmon hatchery on the Columbia, an appropriation for maintaining post lights on Puget sound and to fill up the gap in the littoral triangulation between the Oregon line and Port Orford of $5,000, to fill up a gap in the littoral triangulation between Port Orford and Coos bay $2000, repairs of the signal service station at the mouth of the Columbia $[illegible]. The appropriation for continuing the survey of the coast of Oregon and continuing the survey of the Columbia river from the mouth of the Willamette toward the Cascades has been increased to $[illegible]. The appropriation for continuing the exploration in Alaskan waters and the establishment of astronomical longitude and magnetic stations between Sitka and the southern end of the territory has been increased from [illegible].

FORT KLAMATH.

In answer to an inquiry Hermann to-day received the following telegram from W. F. Shaw, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs: "On the 20th inst. this office asked the secretary of war to send an additional company of cavalry to Fort Klamath." The effect of this request will doubtless be the return to the fort of a cavalry company, as the secretary of war has intimated to Hermann, who has been urging such action, that if the Indian bureau made such a request for the return of the company he would issue the order.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE COLUMBIA.

The brevity of the item telegraphed by the associated press that the national board of trade rejected the resolution favoring government aid in the improvement of the Columbia river, may cause it to be misunderstood. When the vote was taken there were present only twenty-three delegates, twelve strong for and eleven against the resolution, a two-thirds vote being necessary for its adoption. The opposition came mostly from Chicago and neighboring delegates. They spoke in favor of improving the river, but thought the state ought to provide for the improvement, not the government.

NEW BILLS.

Mitchell has introduced the following bills:

Making an appropriation of $8000 for a life saving station at Yaquina bay.

Appropriating $25,000 for the purchase of additional ground for the custom house at Port Townsend.

To pay M. S. Hellman of Canyon City $[illegible]000 for grain and flour delivered at Camp Harney.

To pay Chas. W. Denton of Oregon $25,000 for occupation of lands by Indians and injuries thereto.

PENSIONS.

Pensions have been granted to Jno. R. E. Selby of Portland, Robt. M. Derrick of Chehalis, W. T., and an increase of pension to Jno. W. Mobley of Vancouver, W. T. T. C. J.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE BILL.

None so Blind as Those who will not See, Says an Old Adage.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The president of one of the trunk railroads is credited with the observation that he has been reading the interstate commerce bill during the past three days, and knows as little about it as when he began. He says some of its provisions are drawn up in so obscure a manner as to be susceptible of doubtful interpretations, and the best thing the president could do if it is to become a law would be to return it to congress with the recommendation that it be put in such a shape that the average human mind could comprehend it. Other railroad magnates who have been trying to study the meaning of the bill in its details are of the same opinion. This explains why Commissioner Fink called a special meeting of the representatives of the trunk lines to-day to exchange views on the subject.

THE KNIGHTS' OPPOSITION.

Wall street is entertained with a report that the Knights of Labor are urging the president to veto the interstate commerce bill on the theory that as the railroads under operation of such a law will be in some sense under the control of the federal government it would make future strikes against them impossible and to that extent it is a point against their employes.

WHAT STANFORD THINKS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Senator Stanford thinks that President Cleveland has the great opportunity of his life to achieve distinction and renown and secure a renomination by vetoing the interstate commerce bill. Attorney General Garland has decided not to allow railroad attorneys to appear before him in opposition to the bill, but has consented that they may file briefs expressive of their views of the bill. The president will have the subject before him early next week, and but little doubt is felt of his approval of the bill.

THE PRESIDENT WILL SIGN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Herald's Washington correspondent telegraphs: The president will sign the interstate commerce bill unless the attorney general, who is still examining the bill, shall convince him that some of its parts are unconstitutional. Cleveland has not examined it himself as yet, except so far as it is his habit to keep the general run of important legislation proposed in congress, but it can be said he believes and has long believed in the necessity of legislation by congress to regulate and control the great corporations which carry on the commerce between the states. He has no doubt of the constitutional power of congress to do this, and his sympathies are therefore entirely with the present bill.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

MANNING'S RETIREMENT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Washington correspondent of the Tribune says: The coming resignation of Manning attracts less attention here than the question who is to succeed him. It is believed W. L. Scott could have the office if he wanted it, but it is thought his health will not permit. Fairchild, while liked by the president, is said not to be thought of in connection with the secretaryship. Assistant Treasurer Canada says that Jordan will probably be president of the new Western National bank of this city if Manning decides not to accept the office.

BAYARD'S DENIAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Bayard was shown to-night a published statement to the effect that he had sent a dispatch to Minister Phelps informing him that the British schooners seized by the revenue steamer in Alaskan waters for illegal fishing were wrongfully seized and held, that they will be given up and that proper damages will be paid for their detention. The secretary said: "I have no knowledge of such a despatch. I have written none such."

CONGRESSMAN COX SERIOUSLY ILL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—A special to the Evening Star to-night says: Congressman Cox of New York has had another relapse. His condition is regarded as very serious. His recovery, though slow, was sure until two days ago. Since that time he has grown steadily weaker and to-day was unable to sit up. Mrs. Cox makes no concealment of her anxiety as to the outcome, although the attending physician believes that the illness has not yet assumed a critical turn.

STATE DISPATCHES.

THE LEGISLATORS AT YAQUINA.

YAQUINA, Jan. 30.—The legislative party which accepted the invitation of the Oregon Pacific to visit Yaquina City and the government works at the entrance of Yaquina bay left Salem at 10:45 and dined at Albany. They left Albany at 12:15 and arrived at Yaquina a little before 6. The violent rain storm deterred many at the last moment from going. The party consisted of forty-one members of both houses and several ladies accompanied their husbands. They were all entertained at the Yaquina hotel, where 120 guests sat down to meals. The party spent the early part of this morning in visiting the car and machine shops and round house and going over the steamship Yaquina, which lies at the docks. They also inspected the terminal works. They then went up the bay to Oysterville on the tug Favorite, returning to the hotel for dinner. Immediately after dinner they went down on the tug to the government works, where Mr. Polhemus, government engineer, met them. Most of the party went to the end of the jetty. They there enjoyed the rough breeze and blustering greetings of old Neptune, but had the special pleasure of seeing the miseries of those brave ones who had ventured out on the tug across the bar, and were [illegible] unmercifully tossed. To some the sight of the ocean was entirely novel. The depth of water on the bar was found to be twenty-two feet by soundings made in the presence of all, yet lacking nearly two feet of high tide. Mr. Polhemus states that he expects to commence active work on the jetties inside of a month. Mr. Blundel, though small, was the life of the party. General surprise was expressed at the magnitude and substantial nature of the railroad works, and satisfaction at the facilities of the bay for extended commerce.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is purely vegetable. It does not [illegible].

LONDON LETTERS.

The Government's Position Very Weak and Dissolution is Probable.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—London cable: The opening of the parliamentary session was not on the whole very remarkable save for Lord Randolph Churchill's speech. Lord Salisbury's statement in the house of lords regarding his foreign policy was reassuring and has been well received abroad. His denial that he ever attempted to restore Prince Alexander to the Bulgarian throne is accepted by everybody, but elicits no apology from the Russian organ in England which has continually asserted the contrary. Lord Salisbury's reference to Irish matters were firmer in tone than those in the queen's speech, but nothing with reference to Ireland is so striking as Gladstone's refusal to express any other opinion on the plan of campaign than that it is in consequence of the policy which the ministry have pursued. No word of condemnation of it came from him, though he was discreetly challenged, nor from Lord Granville in the house of lords. Perhaps the strongest impression made by Gladstone's speech was a personal one. The house thought him in wonderful health, as he is. His voice, in spite of the choking fog which filled the chamber, was less husky than it was last session. It was in that humorous bantering mood which with him denotes a great spirit of satisfaction with the way things are going.

PARNELL'S APPEARANCE

Elicited some expressions of sympathy. He looks ill and haggard. The gastric fever story is not accepted, but he has really been suffering from the effects of severe surgical operations.

W. H. Smith's first appearance as leader of the House of Commons can scarcely be called brilliant. He was warmly received and was cheered as well as drilled tories know how to cheer, but none of the speeches were thought equal to the occasion, while his manner was uncertain and his voice hardly audible. Of anything like the real leadership of authority, dash, vigor and quickness there was little trace.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL

Has failed to justify his resignation before the country as signally as before the house. The Morning Post is the only important tory journal which seems inclined to blame Lord Salisbury rather than Lord Randolph for their final separation, but sundry liberals, the News leading off, profess to consider Lord Randolph's vindication complete. The liberal cue now is to encourage dissension in the tory ranks and to applaud Lord Randolph in order to show what unreasonable fellows his colleagues are. Lord Randolph Churchill's friends admit his speech missed fire because his position would not be impregnable had he not been induced to spike his biggest guns. They are to-day in much consternation, but still repeat their old cry: "Wait till you hear the whole truth."

THE FISHERIES.

Silence is still the rule in the English press on the English fishery business, though the weekly papers allude to the senate debates. The Spectator says: "The English government cannot help supporting Canada. How does it know?" The same journal thinks it most unfortunate that Americans should have made compromise difficult by speeches really addressed to their constituents, but here understood to betray deep latent ill will. The Saturday Review heads its article "Senator Pogram," but cannot decide whether Ingalls or Frye better deserve the name. Questions are certain to be asked soon in parliament concerning the matter.

THE GOVERNMENT'S WEAKNESS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—T. P. O'Connor's London cablegram to the Star says: The house has only been in session since Thursday, and the government is already discredited not only in its Irish administration but in its foreign policy, its strong point, as well. Goschen's defeat at Liverpool was a tory unionist Waterloo. The real question for the consideration of the opposition leaders is whether the time has arrived for driving them out of office, or whether a sound policy does not dictate their being permitted to remain in power a little longer. That is, if they do not themselves, in view of their desperate plight, precipitate their own defeat in order to carry their case to the country without further delay. There are symptoms everywhere of accessions to the liberal organization, resulting from defections of dissidents. Postponement of the next appeal to the country for another twelve months is expedient if the success of Gladstone is desired. Postponement is also advisable on another ground not less important, the education of the English masses on the question of home rule. The government is as conscious of this as the Gladstone managers, as well as the fact of their present weakness in parliament, and are correspondingly anxious to precipitate the appeal to the country. I have every reason to expect the government will expect the defeat of the coercion bill through a combination of Churchill and his followers, the Parnellites, the Gladstone liberals and a certain section of liberal dissidents. This being the case it is not unnatural to suppose they may suddenly take the bull by the horns and treat us to a dissolution in the belief that they are better prepared than the other side to stand the expense and take the consequences.

IRELAND.

TERRIBLE RIOTING.

BELFAST, Jan. 30.—There was terrible rioting at the Peter's Hill, Carrick Hill and Shankill districts in this city last night. The trouble originated through soldiers belonging to a West Surrey regiment insulting a number of Catholic civilians. The latter retaliated by stoning the soldiers, many of whom were injured. To-night the rioting was renewed, and at this hour the police and the mob are exchanging shots. Thirty persons are reported killed and a hundred or more injured.

MIDNIGHT.—It has been learned that nobody was killed, but that many persons received gun shot wounds and a large number of others were more or less bruised by being struck by stones. The town is now quiet.

FRANCE.

ON THE BOURSE.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The week on the bourse opened with a panic and closed with extreme depression, the calling out of Germany's reserves intensifying the distrust yesterday. Three per cent. rentes declined 90 centimes, making a fall for the week of 1 franc 80 centimes. Credit Foncier declined 20 francs during the week, Suez Canal 32 francs, Ottoman Bank 20 francs and Panama Canal 1 francs 75 centimes.

GERMANY.

SAN FRANCISCO AMUSEMENTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—Patti, of course, is the leading theatrical attraction during her two weeks' season. For the first time since she has appeared in this city she disappointed an audience Thursday night, when the concert had to be postponed owing to Patti having taken cold. The extra matinee performance yesterday afternoon was a brilliant success. A popular concert in which the entire troupe except Patti appear will be given to-night at popular prices.

"Zitka" at the Bush street theater after a successful run of two weeks gives place this week to Herrmann, the magician, who is billed for three weeks.

Monday will see a change from opera to comedy at the Tivoli when the "Professor" takes the board after "Nemesis."

The Baldwin will open on Monday with "Article 47," in which Clara Morris will take the leading part.

ANOTHER DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—At 8 o'clock this evening a horse car on the Sutter street line ran over a dynamite cartridge on Market street, near Davis. After the explosion followed, the flange of one of the wheels was broken and the car lifted two feet. Shortly before 9 o'clock a horse car on the same line at the corner of Buchanan and Pacific streets ran over a dynamite cartridge. The flange of one of the wheels was broken and the windows shattered. None of the passengers were injured.

IDENTITY OF A SUICIDE.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—The coroner has received several letters from Portland, Oregon, regarding the identity of F. M. Dennis, who committed suicide in the sisters' hospital in this city January 14th. The indications are that the suicide was a man named F. M. Davis, who has been missing from Portland some time and was supposed to have been murdered there.

UTAH.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

OGDEN, Jan. 30.—An accident occurred at Almy last night, near Evanston, Wyoming, on the Union Pacific railroad. A coupling between two engines of a passenger train broke, resulting in the derailing of the second engine, the baggage, express, mail car and two passenger coaches. All were piled up in a confused heap. Engineer Mark Murphy was killed and one fireman and other train men slightly injured.

Twenty-Four Hours to Live.

From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in perfect health, we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearance, in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine."

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Confession of Edward Unger, Murderer of August Bohle.

THE TRUNK MYSTERY SOLVED.

Oregon's Legislators Junketing at Yaquina Bay—A Mormon Sensation—Anarchist Plot Discovered—Robbers Chased with Bloodhounds.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Edward Unger, the murderer of August Bohle, whose body was found last week in the trunk shipped to Baltimore, has made a full confession of the killing. Unger was arrested on Thursday last, and after being a short time locked in his cell he was brought before Inspector Byrnes. In the room was a table on which had been placed the hammer with which Bohle was killed, the knife and saw used to cut up the body and the rubber cloth in which the body was wrapped after the killing. The chair upon which Unger seated himself was so arranged that he could see little else in the room save the bloody weapons. He was asked if he wished to say anything. He shook his head, but suddenly said: "Bohle has gone to Chicago and will turn up in a few days." Friday afternoon Byrnes took the hammer, saw, knife and rubber cloth to Unger's cell and asked if he had not seen them before, in a manner as though Unger had not been half a dozen times before with them. Unger was startled, but said he had never before seen the bloody tokens. Then he was taken to the court and remarked to Inspector Byrnes: "You are trying to hang me."

The trunk with the body arrived from Baltimore yesterday. The body was sent to the morgue. That night Byrnes went to Unger's cell and asked him how he felt. "Pretty well," said he huskily. Then the inspector unlocked the cell door and Detective Hickey called Unger into the corridor, where the lights were turned low. The prisoner stepped forth, but did not see the inspector until the latter called him by name. As he turned he saw Byrnes standing and pointing at the trunk which had held Bohle's dead body. Unger staggered at the sight and tottered towards his cell. Byrnes then took from the trunk a piece of the murdered man's coat, which had been used to wrap up the body, and holding it before the prisoner's eyes asked him where the rest of Bohle's coat was. Unger,

Of the blood-stiffened garment, and clasping his hands over his eyes was about to fall, when Detective Hickey caught him and seated him upon a couch in the corner. He sat down upon it, and removing his hands glanced about him. Suddenly and with a startled groan he sprang to his feet, asking if he could change his seat, and taking a proffered chair. The sofa on which he had been seated was one found in Unger's room after his arrest. Unger's face became ghastly pale, and when assisted to his cell he was almost in a fainting condition. Inspector Byrnes then told Unger he would be near at hand when he was ready to talk.

When the inspector returned from supper Unger had asked to see him. Again Unger was brought to Byrnes' room, where all the bloody tokens confronted him. "I want to tell the whole truth about the business," he said to the chief. He then told this story, which was taken in writing:

"I live at No. 2 Ridge street. I have known August Bohle since November, 1885. I first met him at my saloon, No. 24 Eldridge street, where he called in answer to an advertisement which I had put in the Staats Zeitung for a partner. We could not agree upon terms and I subsequently gave up the business at that number. I went to live at No. 2 Ridge street a short time afterward. August came to live with me, the arrangement being that he was to pay half the rent, which was $7.50 per month, and one-third of the household expenses.

"On the night of January 20, 1877, after supper, my son Edward left the house, leaving Bohle and myself in the room. We remained talking and reading until about 9:30. Bohle was a very powerful man and was swearing about his hard luck. He called me a d—d — —. I told him I was no d—d — —, and put my hand up to shove him away. He then struck me on the neck with his fist and knocked me down. I sprang to my feet and tried to strike him with a poker which I had in my hand. Bohle grabbed the poker from my hand and at the same time

HE SEIZED A KNIFE

From the table and ran after me. I ran to the bedroom and he followed me. I picked up the hammer from the chest under the bed. He made another lunge at me with the knife and I warded it off, receiving a slight cut in the hand. I then struck him with the hammer. He staggered and I followed him up and struck him again with the hammer. The hammer sank into the skull as far as the handle. He staggered and fell back on the sofa dead. This occurred about 10 o'clock P. M. Expecting my son home every moment, and to avoid my son's seeing what had happened, I took the body from the sofa and put it on the floor close to the wall. I then got Bohle's sleeping cot and placed it on its side before him and leaning against the wall, covering the ends with some clothes. My son soon came and we went to bed together in the bedroom.

"'Where's August?' he asked.

"'He has gone out,' said I.

"On Friday night, January 21, as soon as my boy had gone for his work, I went out, bought some rubber, laid the body on it, and cut it up to fit Bohle's trunk, in which I placed the pieces except the head, which I wrapped in a coat, put a newspaper around it, and while crossing on the ferry boat dropped it into the river. I returned to my house, took the trunk to a saloon, and asked permission to leave it over night, which was granted. I called for it Saturday morning about 9 o'clock. I got a man to take it to the saloon of Henry Benz, No. 39 Kent avenue, Brooklyn, where I left it a few minutes until I went to Wescott's express office. I told the expressman where he was to call and returned to Benz's store. I got some mucilage and put this label on the trunk: 'John A. Wilson, Baltimore, Md. To be called for.' I did not mean to kill the deceased. He was a quarrelsome man and I believed that my life was in danger when I struck him. The manner in which I disposed of the body was so as to save myself and family from disgrace. EDWARD UNGER."

AN ANARCHIST PLOT.

Discovery of Drawings Supposed to be a Plan to Blow up the Chicago Jail.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Police Captain Schaack in an interview to-day admitted that he had been over a fortnight investigating what appeared to be an anarchist plot to save Spies and his fellow-conspirators from death on the gallows. Within a month there has been a marked revival of interest in the anarchist meetings in this city, and the efforts of police to keep track of their proceedings has been redoubled. As a result the captain came into possession of a drawing which is represented as the basement plan of the jail and criminal court building. It was accurate in every particular, even to the sewers and waste pipes. Accurate basement plans of buildings in Clark street extending to the jail alley were also shown. From certain of these buildings lines were drawn which met in the center of the jail yard. An investigation showed that the basements indicated were those for rent or those which could be leased. Captain Schaack's inquiries led to the theory that the lines centering in the jail yard represented possible or projected tunnels. Negotiations had been entered into for the lease of one basement by [illegible] prosperous shoe-dealers who stipulated for a division of the basement by a close partition separating the front from the back. Boxes were to be delivered and taken from the rear end entrance. A close watch has been kept up without result, and all hopes of capturing the conspirators have been abandoned. Capt. Schaack believes that the design was to cheat the gallows by blowing up the condemned anarchists and with them the officers delegated to conduct the execution. The tunnels were designed to enable the anarchists to escape, the lines would not reach to the jail yard but to the jail itself.

A MORMON SENSATION.

Brigham Young Still Alive and will Pretend to Arise from the Dead.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The Tribune's special from [illegible], Neb., says: Two miles south of this city stands a palatial residence owned by an English gentleman long since identified with the Mormon church. The residence has been untenanted for the last two years save by an old servant, man named White, who at one time was connected with the Icereis of London, a sect similar to the Mormons. White claims he was defrauded by them of all his property and latterly became converted to the Mormon faith. He says:

"Five months ago there arrived at the mansion an old gentleman bearing letters from my master in London, the purport of which was to obey his every wish and to keep his presence a secret to all except those whom he saw fit to receive. Within a week persons began to arrive at the house in twos and threes. They were from Salt Lake and held long consultations with my mysterious guest. At first I did not care who or what he was until little by little I gathered from stray remarks that he was a person of note, and soon after the truth burst upon me that he is none other than Brigham Young, the great prophet of our church, who is apparently to be resurrected from the dead and preach to the people of Zion as one having returned from the grave to tell what lies behind. That his death and burial were only a deception will soon be seen by the whole world. My only reason for telling the facts is that I am an old man with but little to gain in this world and don't want to see a people deluded as I have been. The Jezreelites absorbed my money and now the Mormons have broken my faith."

JOHN ROACH'S PROPERTY.

A Statement Concerning his Will Contradicted by one of his Sons.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The will of the late John Roach will be filed for probate next week. The property bequeathed by Roach consists only of the shipyard at Chester, Pa., the Morgan Iron works at the foot of Ninth street and the house on Fifth avenue in which Roach lived and died. There are no stocks, bonds, money or real estate other than that already mentioned. The famous shipbuilder's three sons, Garrett, Tuinlard and Stephen Roach, and his widow inherit the property equally. The Fifth avenue house and the Morgan Iron works are entirely free from any incumbrance. Within a month the works will be handed over to the heirs with all accounts against them settled, but in such condition as they were when Roach assigned. The heirs, it is said, are left entirely without capital. They will make no effort to resume operations at the works, although it was Roach's lifelong desire and ambition that his sons should succeed him. The works at Chester will be sold for the purpose of carrying on the Morgan Iron works. A stock company has been formed, of which George E. Weed, Roach's old friend, is president.

A STATEMENT FROM GARRETT ROACH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The statement published concerning the will of John Roach caused Garrett Roach to say: "My father's will has not been probated and will not be offered for probate for the present. No date has been decided upon for that act. The Chester works are in full working order and will so continue. The Morgan Iron works are also in operation. They will be kept in operation. As to the talk about the sale of the works at Chester to carry on the Morgan works, it has not been contemplated at all. Before my father's death an arrangement was made by which the Morgan works will be continued under the charge of George Weed, myself and my brothers. The Chester yard was never in the hands of the assignees, and it is our purpose it shall be kept in full operation."

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

THE WOOL TRADE.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—The tone of the wool market has been strengthened by the firm and active opening of the public auction sales in London Tuesday last. Firm holders have become firmer, and as there have been no really weak holders the market is in better position than ever before in the history of the trade. There has been an active demand during the week. Sales of all kinds amount to 3,834,100 pounds. Prices are no higher, unless we except some of those grades which are in short supply and wanted, two factors which would make high prices under any conditions, but on all grades there is a very firm feeling. A number of the largest mills have been represented as among the buyers on the market, and from this time on we may be sure of a good demand and a steady market. The California wool market has been more active. Sales of spring wool have been 354,000 pounds, including a round lot of 16,000 pounds at 20 cents per pound. Fall California wool sold to the extent of 205,000 pounds, all of which was reported on private terms, but is understood to be in the range of our quotations.

BLAINE NOT A CANDIDATE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Tribune quotes F. M. Stanwood, nephew of Blaine, and a large stockholder in the Boston Journal, as saying: "It runs counter to public opinion that Blaine is not filled with the ambition to be president, but if all could hear him talk as I have at times, they would know his real condition of mind. Last summer Blaine said to me distinctly that in his own preference he would much rather see a friend placed in the presidential chair and go back to the state department, where he considers he left a great and uncompleted work, than to be president himself."

HENRY GEORGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Henry George, in the Standard yesterday has another attack on Archbishop Corrigan. There is little new matter in it, save it had a copy of a letter which the archbishop, while Bishop of Newark, directed clergy of his diocese to instruct their parishioners to vote against the constitutional amendment which made church property liable to taxation. George insists this was a case of clerical interference [illegible] more objectionable than that concerning Dr. McGlynn.

BIDDING FOR THE LABOR VOTE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—There is just now a sharp competition between democratic and republican managers for the political support of the Knights of Labor at the next election, and they are seeking to outbid each other with a zeal which would seem to imply that all that Henry George and his adherents have to do is to make out carte blanche what they want and they will get pretty much all the legislation they desire.

CHINESE GAMBLERS RAIDED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—No. 566 Fulton street, Brooklyn, has been known as a Chinese tea store, but to-night the police battered down the doors and captured forty-seven Chinese, who were gambling and $50,000 in cash. Three prisoners had $7000 each and two $5000 each. They came from San Francisco, St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburg, Newark and Paterson, N. J., for the purpose of breaking the "bank."

TIMID SOCIALISTS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—About 200 socialists held a meeting at 71 West Lake street to-day and adopted resolutions protesting against the passage of the bill now pending before congress to establish a permanent military post near this city. The resolutions declare that the object is to intimidate the citizens of Chicago, and that the garrison, as the post is called, is a menace to the liberty of the people.

MINISTER PENDLETON RETURNS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Hon. George H. Pendleton, U. S. minister to Germany, was among the passengers on the steamer Saale from Bremen, which arrived here to-day.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

ROBBERS PURSUED BY BLOODHOUNDS.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 30.—Two detectives, accompanied by four determined men, started with bloodhounds in pursuit of the gang of train robbers who have been operating in this vicinity for the past six months. News reached here this morning that the robbers had been overtaken and a desperate encounter at close range ensued, and that the detectives and prisoners would arrive this evening by special train. The robbers were tracked into Hell's canyon, near Bealen station, eighty miles south of here, and when the robbers discovered they were surrounded they prepared for a fight and made a bloody defense at close range. The robbers proved to be four in number and well armed. The detectives demanded their surrender, which was answered by a volley of lead from the robbers, and then a regular battle commenced. The detectives and their party were too many for them, however, and in the capture Hardy Foster was killed, but after being shot lived long enough to make a confession implicating the whole party. Two others were captured, the fourth making his escape. One of the captured men proved to be Charlie Ross, who murdered Marshal McGuire in this city last November and subsequently broke jail. The name of the other robber is Leslie Bois, a native of Weatherford, Texas. Both men are now lodged in jail, which is surrounded by a sheriff's posse. Lynching is favored and likewise feared.

A MURDERER LYNCHED.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 30.—Last Monday Wm. Lud Cornish, of Sharpsburg, Washington county, shot Miss Lulu Green through the heart and brain because she would not marry him. He also tried to kill the girl's mother and sister, but failed on account of his pistol being out of order. The mother received a wound in the hand and was knocked down with the pistol. Cornish was captured and taken to Springfield, the county seat. Last night a mob composed of seventy-five men entered the jail and secured the prisoner. He was taken to a farm about two miles north of the town and hung.

ENTERTAINMENT AT MASONIC HALL.

The entertainment and social given by the ladies of the Christian church to welcome their new pastor Saturday evening was a decided success. The programme commenced with an instrumental quartette on the piano, guitar and harmonica by "The Boys," which was well rendered. The instrumental solo by Miss Rowley was excellent. The song "My Jack is a Sailor," by Georgie Sears and Ida Barker, was exceedingly well rendered, and called forth a hearty encore, when they responded with "Echo." Messrs. Sears, Rankin and Morse sang a medley and were applauded to the echo. Mr. Morse sang a solo with good effect. Mrs. Schwab sang "Dreaming" with a sweet voice and appropriate feeling, and was heartily applauded. Misses Nina and Josie Johnson acted "Little Red Riding Hood" in costume with fine effect. Misses Eva and Emma Smith, the latter only 4 years old, gave a piano duet which evinced remarkable talent for such young performers. Fred Purdin, Wells Payne, Maggie Messick and Eva Smith recited a very humorous dialogue, "Before and Behind the Scenes." Miss Genevra Calkins gave a fine selection on the piano, which was artistically rendered with fine effect. About the finest performance of the evening was the sword dance by little Lulu Foreman, in which she displayed remarkable power of execution. The manner in which she deftly avoided the sword points could not have been excelled. She received a hearty encore. Altogether the entertainment was a decided success. Supper was served after the exercises of the evening, which was heartily enjoyed by all. The audience was good, considering the weather quite large, and all seemed to enjoy the evening with a hearty zest.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, MONDAY JANUARY 31 188

WHERE THE REAL DANGER WOULD BE.

Those Catholics who object to the public schools, denouncing them as "Godless" because they do not give religious instruction, have a considerable amount of Protestant support. Thus, the last work of the noted Dr. A. A. Hodge was an article that appeared in the Princeton Review, on "Religion in the public schools." Dr. Hodge was a Presbyterian and high Calvinist; he was a very able man, whose line of study and thought as professor of dogmatic theology at Princeton would be likely to lead him to exaggerate the importance of pushing at all points the religious and theological doctrines to which such a man would be deeply devoted. It was Dr. Hodge's opinion that under our present school system there lurks a great danger to the state, because the schools do not promote religion as well as intelligence "The danger," said he, "arises from the weak and sickly sentimentalism respecting the transcendental spirituality of religion, the non-religious character of the state, and the supposed equitable rights of a small infidel minority"

But this is not the whole difficulty Admit that religion is of transcendental importance go further and admit that 'the infidel minority' have no rights that believers are bound to respect; disregard the views and feelings of the Jews and others, who, though devout religionists, yet do not accept Christianity, and let it be granted that we are to have a Christian state What then? Is it possible to imagine that all Christians will come to a common understanding on a basis of Christianity, to be recognized and taught in all public schools? It is a preposterous idea. The Christian denominations would not be so bitter even against Turks and infidels as against each other.

It is easy to proceed in this style of lament, viz. "Owing to difference of opinion between Protestants and Catholics as to what version of the bible shall be used, that book has been banished from our common schools. Owing to an extreme and illogical stretching of the principle of separation between church and state all school text books have been emasculated by taking all religious references and tendencies out of them. So far as possible, they have been made absolutely agnostic. The reading books no longer have selections from the bible, from Milton, from any classical authors in which even so much as God's providence is acknowledged. Teachers are not allowed to inculcate even the least religious principle. The schools have become godless." It is easy, we say, to proceed in this style of lament, but it is thoughtless, irrelevant, fruitless. Agreement is impossible, except on the basis of carrying on the public schools without religious teaching therein, and leaving religious teaching to the family, to the church and to such other instrumentalities as may be appointed or used for that purpose.

People will cut each other's throats upon religious differences with more ferocity than on any other differences whatever. If religion is to be taught in the schools, question will arise at once on the form and quality of the religion, and there will be contention for control of the government as a means of directing the schools and propagating religious doctrines. Here is all the necessary material for a civil war, in which religious fervor, fanaticism and ferocity would take the lead, and the only sure means of settlement would be that which brought peace at last to Germany out of her long continued religious wars, namely, destruction of the greater part of the population of the country The danger, then, Dr. Hodge to the contrary notwithstanding, is not in keeping the question of religious instruction in our schools out of our school system and political system, but in allowing it to be [illegible] therein.

A REMORSELESS TYRANNY

James F. Hudson, in the North American Review for January, presents a powerful picture of the grinding despotism and robbery of labor in his description of the "Anthracite Coal Pool" Suppose the great transportation lines should combine, gain possession of all wheat-raising lands, cut down the production, advance flour from $4 50 and $5 a barrel to $6 and $7, thus cutting down the wages of labor and increasing the cost of bread by the same stroke, what would be thought of such a conspiracy against the rights and welfare of the people? The anaconda of capital is not long enough or strong enough to do this with food, but it is long enough and strong enough to do it with fuel. Five railroad companies, engaged in transporting coal from the mining districts of Pennsylvania, accomplished this outrage by a consolidation, which secured the ownership of seven-tenths of the anthracite coal lands, and then united in action to restrict the total output in coal, allotting to each company a stated percentage of this total. Among the last acts of Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania was a declaration, through his attorney general, that all such combinations were in violation of the state constitution, which declares "all railroads and canals shall be public highways, and all railroad and canal companies shall be common carriers," that every one shall have full right to the transportation of property over them without discrimination, and that no common carrier shall be interested "in mining or manufacturing articles for transportation over its works." The effect of this illegal combination of railroads and coal companies has been to create an artificial scarcity in fuel and establish an advance of 50 cents a ton This advance in price brings no advance in wages to labor The U S census report shows that in the first decade of this combination and conspiracy against the public weal the average weekly wages of the miners were reduced 36 per cent, while the retail price of coal in Philadelphia declined only 16 per cent. The Pennsylvania bureau of labor statistics shows that in the early years of the present decade while the cost of all labor represented in a ton of coal ready for shipment was but $1 60 [illegible], the retail price was maintained at Philadelphia at [illegible] to $5 50 per ton The artificial scarcity created in coal by this combination gave the miners but 1[illegible] days work in 1878, and [illegible] days in 1883 and between these two extremes a total of [illegible] days work in the past eight years Taking the actual average wages reported to the state bureau of statistics up to 1885, as affected by this enforced idleness, it shows a reduction of nearly 60 per cent, while the fall in the price of coal was less than 20 per cent., when the average weekly wages were but $6 7 The rate of freight charged by these Anthracite coal railroads has been kept for the last sixteen years between 1½ and 1¾ cents per ton mile, while the average rates on high and low class freights carried by trunk lines have been brought down to ¾ cents per ton-mile That is, inexpensive coal freights are charged at three times the average rate on grain.

The Pennsylvania railroad, in revenge for the invasion of its own territory by one of the Anthracite roads, entered into competition with the combination, and this slight approach to competition "in a single province of the empire of "King Coal" reduced the price of coal 70 cents a ton below the price of 1884, and added thirty days to the working time of the miners The Pennsylvania railroad having reduced the combination to submission by its retaliation, all competition ceased and all hands renewed the work of restricting production and putting up prices. The coal combination answered Gov Pattison's appeal to the state constitution by claiming that their charters antedated the constitution, and were therefore exempt from its restrictions. But the supreme court of the state has always ruled such combinations as illegal under principles of law that antedate these charters or the constitution, and has denounced them as conspiracies and criminal combinations against the people. The supreme court of Ohio declared a combination of salt manufacturing companies illegal, when "the tendency of the agreement is to establish monopoly and prevent competition." The supreme court of Massachusetts has made the same ruling in its denunciation of agreements in restraint of competition. The supreme court of the United States in 1844 ruled that if the effect of a railway charter would be to establish a monopoly, not even the legislature could grant the powers of the state for such a purpose, "as it is opposed to every constitutional principle which protects the right of property" Capital in all other spheres of action has to take its chance of full and free competition but capital in railway transportation impudently and oppressively claims exemption from the regulative force of competition and combines to secure extortionate profits. This combination to raise the cost of the necessaries of life to the consumer is forbidden by the state constitution and denounced by the courts as conspiracies, and yet these corporations continue to suppress competition through the possession of the routes of transportation, that is, they use the gift of the state to make a scourge for the backs of its people to enhance the price of a necessary of life to the consumer and crowd down the wages of the producer That is, capital arbitrarily fixes the price of fuel for the workingman and cuts down by artificial reduction the wages of the miner Labor has to fight competition, while capital by illegal combination extinguishes competition King Coal issues his fiat and the price of coal advances to the consumer at the rate of $1[illegible]000 000 a year, while enforced idleness for the miner stands for a loss to labor of $10 000 000 more Labor sees that this conspiracy is successful it sees coal rise and labor idle, and it assumes, ignorantly, that our laws give capital the right to "corner" the necessaries of life and artificially increase its profits by ordering labor to stand idle, but the law does no such thing The law denounces such combinations but a vile, rotten public opinion, led by politicians who are the tools of great corporations, and the paralyzing influence of great wealth on the administration of justice, have allowed the laws to be defied and the conditions upon which they were permitted to organize and act to be violated and ignored"

THE ELECTORAL COUNT

The electoral count bill, which is in the hands of the president and sure to be signed by him, provides that the electors shall meet in their respective states and vote on the second Monday of January following the presidential election The second section of the bill, and the most important, provides

If any state shall have provided by laws enacted prior to the day fixed for the appointment of electors for its final determination of any controversy concerning the appointment of all or any of the electors of such state, by judicial or other methods of procedure, and such determination shall have been made at least six days before the time fixed for the meeting of the electors, such determination shall be conclusive and shall govern in the counting of the electoral votes so far as the ascertainment of the electors appointed by such state is concerned.

Under this section each state is directed judicially to determine for itself who its electors are. It is further provided by a subsequent section that where dual returns are offered by a state through its neglect or refusal to decide the result of its own election neither return shall be accepted except by a majority vote of each house. The prima facie evidence of the regularity and validity of a return under the laws of the state shall be the seal of the governor, and congress is forbidden to go behind this seal except by a majority vote of each house taken separately The bill also provides that the president of the senate in joint session shall announce the number of votes received by each candidate, which shall be the only announcement of the result deemed necessary. Debate is limited to two hours on any one question, and congress is required to remain in continuous session until the count has been concluded It is also provided that the count shall stop when objection to the return from a state is made, and this return must be finally disposed of before the count is resumed. Every objection shall be in writing and [illegible] at least one senator and one representative

Henry V Poor, the noted railroad statistician, has issued a circular in which he examines the interstate commerce bill He expresses the opinion that rigid enforcement of the act would destroy the greater part of the business of the country His doctrine is that the roads have reduced rates of their own accord as fast and as far as they could Taking many roads for his illustration, he shows that the average charge per ton per mile in 1865 was 3 642 cents, in 1885, 1 200 cents, the decrease in the period of twenty years equaling 2.442 cents per ton per mile, the percentage of decrease being 67 per cent. "It is the low rates on the 'long haul,'" he says, "that has made the country what it is. But for it the greater part of the territory west of the Mississippi would have remained a desert compared with what it is now In reducing rates both on the long and short haul, the railroad companies have only obeyed a law far stronger than any methods of their own. By reducing rates they stimulate business, and in this way make up the deficit resulting from reduced rates in the quantity moved." But the people are not satisfied with the exposition of this subject which the railroads give them, and hence they demand the interstate bill.

Mr S. G. W. Benjamin's "Persia and the Persians," recently published, has much to say of every phase of Persian life—political, religious, economic, social—and as he endeavors as far as possible to explain as well as describe, his book is exceedingly instructive on the whole present condition of the nation. His words about the English loss of influence and the Russian gain, in spite of the Shah's dislike of Russia, deserve attention in this country as the words of an independent witness He considers the active interference of Russia to be already a great obstacle to all internal progress in Persia, and he complains not merely of Russian bribery of officials, but of her inveigling Nestorian and Armenian subjects of Persia across the frontier by fair promises, and then, after they have settled denying them the free exercise of their religion

Another paper of Umatilla county stands up for Wager and excoriates the ring The Weston Leader says

A few democrats headed by the renegade Siglin [illegible] patted on the back by Simon's little clique are making an effort to expel Mr Wager from the senate. The troublé grew out of criticisms in the East Oregonian on the conduct of Siglin and those of his little clique that were none too severe Wager has arrayed himself against ring rule and corporation power and it is just possible that if the fool democrats can get the co-operation of sufficient republicans his expulsion may take effect but it is safe to say that should Mr Wager be expelled from the senate the people of Umatilla county would return him by a practically unanimous vote He is proving himself an honor to old Umatilla and a credit to his constituency

"It is not," says the New York Tribune of the interstate commerce bill's operations, "the railroads that will suffer. Their operating expenses will still be paid by passengers and shippers. Only the burdens will be shifted a little from one class to another Settlement and production will be hindered in the West and on the Pacific coast. That will be the earliest effect of the bill Through rates will be increased, to the discomfiture of distant shippers In nearly every instance the injury done will be a public injury Congress has judged it best to let the people have this unpleasant experience A year hence, perhaps, the men who passed the bill will regret their action"

The February number of Scribner's Magazine, of which 1[illegible],000 copies have been issued as a first edition, contains a paper of curious interest, by John C. Ropes, on "Likenesses of Julius Caesar" Mr Ropes has for years been collecting photographs of the head of this foremost man that ever appeared in the tide of times, as it appears in his busts and statues. Of these he presents us with eighteen reproductions, with an account of each and proper identification of each with those periods of Caesar's life to which they respectively belong No magazine has recently published an article of more interest to the student of history

Mr Sumner once coined a neat phrase "The reciprocity of discourtesy" That, remarks the New York Tribune, "is the kind of reciprocity which the Canadian government is bent upon having Americans measure out for them."

THE WEEK AT SALEM.

PORTLAND 30th of January

Less has been accomplished during the half of the legislative period just now ended than might have been expected from the furious energy with which the session began The past week has been given up largely to committee work and to discussions of one sort or another and neither branch has yet fairly gotten at the work of considering bills As yet the only bill which has passed both houses is that which provides for the payment of mileage and per diem of the members Scores of bills have been returned from the committees and are now on the clerks desks awaiting action so it is fair to suppose that the coming week will be a busy one

The Portland bridge bill which passed the senate last week with but one dissenting vote, is obstructed in the house not so much by positive opposition as by a disposition to make it wait its turn The bridge bill is not the only victim of this spirit There is scarcely a doubt that the bill will pass but it is by no means certain that it will get the two thirds vote desired for it From some unaccountable cause Judge Boise, whose influence is a very important negative or obstructive force is opposed to the bridge bill, and there is serious danger that he may defeat its passage over an executive veto As to the veto there is little doubt unless the first vote in the house like that in the senate should exceed the required two thirds that it must be met The governor practically announced his veto in his message and his more recent references to the bridge project give small ground for hope to its promoters The Portland water bill went through the senate by all but unanimous vote getting nineteen out of the twenty votes Ten members were absent whether by design or otherwise it is not possible to know Nothing has yet been done with it in the house

The bill to authorize the proposed O R & N lease still hangs in the senate It is opposed by the agents of the Oregon Pacific, not as I see it upon legitimate grounds but because the Oregon Pacific in its future development does not want a rival through line The declared objection is upon the ground that transfer of the O R & N system to the Union Pacific will remove its management from the state, make it impracticable to deal with it through the courts and remove it from the authority of the legislature These assertions are so shallow and mistaken that it is difficult to believe that they can be honestly made The management of the O R & N is now in New York and has always been and the road is notoriously the subject of stock board speculation legitimate enough perhaps as business morals go but not favorable for the country which the road serves So far as the charge relating to legal service is concerned existing law provides against any trouble on this score. The theory that the state would lose control of the road because its ownership would be outside of the state is too absurd for serious notice The Oregon Pacific hopes soon to have a through line of its own, hence its anxiety to defeat an arrangement which would give it a strong competitor for through business That's all there is in it.

The prohibitionists have at last got their resolution through and at the general election one year from June next the people will vote upon an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. A proposition for a special election was not pushed, so the question will come up in connection with the various other interests of a general election The result will be a 'whisky fight The liquor interest will combine with the Mitchell political interest and with every other interest in both parties that it can trade with, and the result will be a very dirty campaign, and of course a defeat for prohibition This issue ought by all means to have been submitted to the people disconnected as far as possible with other things and put squarely on its merits. In my judgment its friends have made a mistake in forcing it to a popular vote before they could secure for it consideration by itself at a special election

Hale's house bill defining the qualifications of voters in school elections was so amended on Friday as to wholly change its character As it stands now it removes the limitation against persons not possessed of taxable property in the district, and excludes women no matter what their qualifications may be The bill is now awaiting its third and final reading in the house, where it originated If it should become a law it would at once throw the schools of Portland and the larger towns into politics, and give their management over to whoever could mass the largest vote by fair means or foul Nobody can have the slightest doubt of the result Men like Dick Gerdes would run the school board as they run the city council This has been the experience elsewhere, and it would of course be repeated here Up to this time school management in Portland has been absolutely non partisan and there is every reason for keeping it so The bill in its present shape ought not to pass

Summers's militia bill, which has been reported favorably and now awaits final action in the house, is a comprehensive measure and so far as I can judge a meritorious one It provides for an organization of companies, regiments, brigades etc., according to the wish of the militia officers of the state, and is calculated to greatly develop the militia system It proposes a general tax on all property in the state of one fifth of one per cent. for militia purposes calculated to raise $15,000 The present expenditure for the militia is about $6000 There is now no provision for taking militia forces from one part of the state to another, and this it is proposed to supply. A provision in the Summers bill, giving sheriffs the right to call the troops into service, is likely to be stricken out before the bill passes

It looks now as if the outcome as to the railroads would be a commission with absolute powers, limited by a fixed maximum freight rate. As to apportionment nobody can tell As to insurance, everybody is in the dark As to assessment nobody ventures even to guess A H

THE WATER QUESTION

PORTLAND Jan 31

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

A bill authorizing a further issue of $500 000 of water bonds has passed the senate and now awaits the action of the house

A strong lobby is at work in Salem in favor of the passage of the bill and one and sometimes more of the committee are there urging the measure forward Should this bill pass an amendment should be made to the bill as follows

SECTION — It shall be unlawful for any member of the committee of fifteen to purchase the bonds issued by said committee, either as principal or agent It shall be unlawful for any member of said committee to be interested in any contract for furnishing the material or constructing any portion of the works ordered by the said water commission

Sec — In all contracts to be let hereafter the specifications shall be published in at least two daily newspapers published in the city of Portland for a period of sixty days and bidders shall have the privilege of being present when the said bids are opened by the committee

Sec — The meetings of the said committee of fifteen or the executive committee of the same shall be held with open doors and any citizen who chooses to do so may be present

Sec — Any member of the committee of fifteen who shall be found guilty of any violation of the foregoing sections shall be disqualified from being a member of said committee of fifteen

There can be nothing wrong in the foregoing amendments being adopted and made a portion of the bill when it is considered that no member of the committee takes an oath or gives a bond as is universal in all cases where so large an amount of money is being disbursed

No honest man can object to these amendments and I will guarantee that if they are passed and made a part of this act the zeal of some of the members of the committee of fifteen who have been so industriously pressing this matter at Salem will suddenly cease

I do not know it to be the case, but it is a matter of common report that members of the committee of fifteen were interested in the bids for constructing the pipe line which were received some time since

The whole matter should also be placed in the hands of the common council where it properly belongs and then the people of Portland would have some voice in the selection of the men who disburse such a large amount of their money

Canvassers have been diligently at work for some time past in Portland with petitions asking the legislature to pass this bill as it was introduced, and the argument used by them to induce persons to sign the same was that we had not now an abundant supply of good water and at cheap rates but that it would be the means of disbursing a large amount of money here It is to be hoped that the bill will not pass the house and if it does we have hopes that the executive will stamp it with his objections

What we demand now of the committee of fifteen is a reduction of water rates at once and also a reduction of salaries of paid employes and rents of offices etc, to what is usually paid by private persons OBSERVER

THE GRANT'S PASS CONTENTION.

PORTLAND Jan [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I am surprised at the remark made by Senator Miller of Josephine which appears in THE OREGONIAN of January 28 in regard to the Grant's Pass incorporation He (Miller) says This is a fight between George Riddle Jonathan Bourne and Sol Abraham against the citizens of Grant's Pass Such assertion is emphatically false I have no fight to make against the citizens of Grant's Pass I respect and abide by their actions But as a taxpayer of the aforesaid place I want it to be understood that I do not endorse the Grant's Pass incorporation scheme for which he (Miller) so strenuously works for self interest only, and not for the citizens of Grant's Pass SOL ABRAHAM

A REPLY

In reply to an article appearing in your issue of yesterday under the signature of one John W Kelly I have this to say On Sunday, January [illegible] I filed a complaint in Justice Birtholf's court, at Sprague W T charging this fellow, Kelly with gross and malicious criminal libel He was arrested brought into court and bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $ 50 No bond was required of me to appear at the term of court and prosecute the case When I arrived at [illegible] twenty four miles below Sprague on my return to East Portland, I received the following dispatch from an attorney at Sprague

SPRAGUE W T Jan 24 1887

W W McGuire [illegible]—Libel by Kelly [illegible] WALLACE MOUNT

I returned next morning with Mr Green who had received a dispatch to detain me and at once demanded an investigation Without my giving any testimony on my own behalf Judge [illegible] dismissed the case knowing full well that the complaint filed against me was but spite work and that Kelly thereby had hopes of effecting a compromise and thus escape from the meshes of the law into which he has become so effectually entangled Being a non resident of the territory and it being customary for such when they are complaining witnesses to file a bond for their appearance to prosecute a case, I voluntarily and upon my own motion suggested its propriety and deposited a check with the county auditor As for legal guarantee on my behalf I will state that the article upon which this man Kelly trumped up the charge against me was clipped from some unknown paper which was very apparent to the court. As to the above facts I refer the readers of THE OREGONIAN to the court records county officials or any of the prominent citizens of Sprague In conclusion I will say that I do not intend to have any newspaper controversy with him but propose that the courts shall decide as to his guilt or innocence

BUTTER BY MAIL

A Sample from Wisconsin which Shows that Oregon Dairymen have Much yet to Learn

Mr J F Knapp a day or two since received a one-pound box of butter by mail all the way from Wisconsin. It was made on dry feed about January 20, is of a bright golden yellow color about the same as ordinary Oregon butter in May and June, fine grained and of excellent flavor and contains no coloring matter Following is an extract from the letter accompanying the package

"The butter is not up to my standard. I have a new buttermaker and am expecting to change again in a few days My butter has never been of so pale a color as now Whether it is owing to the severe cold weather or ice water that my cows have been obliged to drink I am unable to decide. However it is much better than colored butter

Mr Knapp says if such butter as the sample sent him can be made in mid winter with the thermometer below zero Oregonians have yet much to learn in the art and practice of dairying It demonstrates that there is yet plenty of work to be done by the dairy association in its labors for dairy reform, and it is to be hoped that the state legislature now in session will pass the needed amendments to the dairy law that the dairy commissioner may be fully armed and equipped to protect this most important growing industry of our state from bogus imitations If such beautiful butter can be produced on dry feed in winter without coloring, the use of coloring matter ought to be abolished. There is no excuse for it.

This butter comes in a neat paper box in perfect shape and condition without injury Who would have thought of sending butter by mail? This sample can be seen for a few days at the office of Henry Everding 45 Front street.

NEW GOLD STRIKE IN BAKER COUNTY.

BAKER CITY Jan 2 —A gold strike of remarkable richness has just been made on Cracker creek near Fort Sumpter by Messrs Tabor & Swan of this place who discovered a ledge of quartz while out prospecting last summer on which they sunk a shaft to the depth of thirty five feet exposing a vein three feet in width which averaged by assay $12 per ton in gold. Preparations were then made to run a level on the vein into the steep mountain side at a point some distance below the shaft After gaining sixty feet in length on the vein a cross-cut was run to determine the width which proved the vein to be ten feet between slate walls from which an average sample of the vein matter was taken for assay, which resulted in $66 gold per ton. Owing to the superior facilities for working this mine it will prove one of the richest on the continent. The surrounding country abounds in numerous ledges yet to be prospected and quite a rush of prospectors is looked for in the spring or as soon as snow will admit of their access.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

FURIOUS SAND STORM.—The Pacific express, due here at 10 A. M. Saturday, arrived at 4 45 yesterday evening The detention was due to blockades between Willows and Alkali, caused by high winds blowing sand upon the track faster than it could be shoveled off. Old residents, who have made the trip from Celilo to Wallula, and pilots who have navigated the upper river, know how the wind blows when it tries, but from all accounts this wind storm beats the record It began Friday evening and kept up its lick all day Saturday and Sunday, and at 9 last night was still blowing, but not so hard as during the day Passengers who arrived last night say the velocity was well toward 100 miles an hour This is probably an exaggeration, though the government signal service reports forty five miles an hour at Walla Walla, which is a dead calm as compared with the Upper Columbia The wind blew out the flame of the locomotive headlight and the lights in lanterns when they were exposed in the open air The road was obstructed by sand drifts all the way from Willows to Blalock, a distance of seventeen miles This entire stretch was not covered, but there were drifts in places all along, in some instances three to four feet deep The only way to get through was to shovel the sand from the track and push ahead foot by foot, the road closing in behind the train as fast as it moved on. Parts of the road had to be cleared four times. The Pacific express due here yesterday was at Alkali at 9 o'clock last night Not much progress was expected to be made before morning, as the force of shovelers are worn out from continuous work for two days A construction train was brought down from the Centerville branch Sunday night to assist in the work of clearing the track The Atlantic express which left here Friday afternoon got through, but Saturday's train is tied up at Blalock, there being some drifts above that point. No train was sent out from here Sunday afternoon As soon as the wind dies down the track can be speedily cleared. It is likely a train will be sent out this afternoon

"WHO'S GOT THE HOPS?"—This was a standing inquiry among the men of railroad row on Washington street last week, and it related to a car load of hops which arrived here on the O & C. and was awaiting shipment to Chicago Seven freight men pounced on that car load like a crowd of boys when a watermelon wagon comes to town Ordinarily the volume of east-bound traffic is not large, and last week was so particularly dull that the shipment was no small feature. On Friday the freight men of three different roads east of St Paul claimed they had the shipment in writing, while a fourth asserted that he had a bill of lading for the hops over his line. Late Saturday afternoon the ticker announced that the Northern and Wisconsin Central had secured the prize, and that Wilson of the last named line was guarding the car with a shot gun. Upon learning this the presbytery was convened, the Revs. Eckenberger of the Northwestern, McGinnis of the Burlington, Joe Campbell of the Short Line, and McKay of the Rock Island, attending with the venerable Wm H Mead as moderator. They held a secret session on the edge of the walk in front of Canadian Pacific McCord's office during a drenching rain. What they resolved to do was not divulged, but, judging from the way Father Mead's eyes flashed, something will happen, and the question may again be asked "Who's got the hops?"

LUNG TROUBLES AND CALIFORNIA CLIMATE.—Speaking of the death of Ralph Hoyt in California, a gentleman yesterday said a great mistake was made by doctors here in sending people suffering from throat and lung troubles to Southern California. It is a fatal move in most cases. It is not so much the mild, dry climate which such sufferers need as a high elevation, and persons suffering from such troubles are much more likely to be benefited by a residence in Eastern Oregon. He spoke of the instances of S. G. Skidmore, Hamilton Corbett, Charles Rose, Herbert Northrup, E Albright and Ralph Hoyt as cases in point. These gentlemen, and many others who could be named, went to Southern California, hoping to be benefited, and the result in each case was that their lives were shortened. There are numerous instances where people, suffering from such complaints, have had their health restored by a stay in Eastern Oregon, especially where they combined active exercise with roughing it in the high altitude of that region Two late instances were cited, when Chas. Macrum and B. C Watson, whose health was very poor and who have been perfectly restored by a stay in Eastern Oregon, and it looks as if this were the best health resort for our citizens.

HOW HE MISCALCULATED THE BEANS.—People who never puzzle their brains about trifles, and who when they see a pot of beans are not seized with an uncontrollable desire to guess how many there are in it, have but little idea of the number of people who will worry themselves about such things. One gentleman in this city was so much interested in the jar of beans displayed in Kohn's window, on Morrison street, a few days since, and so anxious to secure one or all the prizes offered to the party making the best guess at the number that he bought a glass globe of the same size as the one in the window, filled it with beans to the same height and counted them. He found there were 10,000. He then bought 50 guesses, and made his each 25 higher than the next. But he started in at 10,000, and did not make any guesses below that number. It seems that there was a lot of large beans in the center of the jar, probably put there to fool "close calculators" and the number counted out fell a little short of the 10,000, and so after all his trouble and expense this party never got a bean.

OPPOSED TO THE AMENDED CHARTER.—A few printed copies of the proposed amended charter, as recommended by the council, have been distributed, and the men interested in maintaining the fire department at the present standard are uttering vigorous protests. They claim that if the amendment passes the two hose companies must be disbanded and that there cannot be an efficient department during the next two years, simply for want of men, money and machinery The present engines are wearing out, and in addition to neglecting to make provisions for new ones in case of necessity, the bill proposes to cut off the hose companies—most valuable adjuncts, especially in case of fire in the business district. Besides, as now proposed, the city council will practically control the department, leaving the commissioners only the detail work and the responsibility It is claimed that if the public fully understood the sinister designs of the amendments such a howl would be raised that the Multnomah delegation would not dare to vote for them

BENEFIT FROM IMPROVED HERDS.—Four years ago Messrs Ladd & Reed sent a lot of young bulls from their herds of blooded stock up to the Walla Walla fair for exhibition and sale. The stockmen of that section did not care to invest in these animals so they were brought back here, two being sold to Ben Snipes on the way One of the firm of Harper Bros , extensive cattle raisers at Chilcoot, B C , happened to be here at the time and he bought ten of the young bulls at $250 and took them up on the range A short time since Harper Bros drove 150 head of 2 year old steers, off the grass, 350 miles to the railroad at Cash creek, then by rail 150 miles and by boat to Victoria, where they were killed, and after this long drive they averaged 1190 pounds each This is an extraordinary weight for steers of that age, and especially after being taken off grass and driven so far, and it shows the benefit of grading up herds.

FORBIDS CERTAIN SLAUGHTER HOUSES.—The wholesale butchers of this city are not pleased with a bill introduced by Goodsell providing that no slaughter house shall be located within 300 feet of the highway. There are a number of slaughter houses in the vicinity of this city located close to the highway. Some of these establishments have cost from $8000 to $10,000 The passage of Goodsell's bill will probably render necessary their tearing down and removal Some think that where a man has gone several miles away from town and spent several thousand dollars in constructing buildings necessary to carry on a legitimate business and keeps them in good order so that they are the least possible trouble or offense to anybody, he should not be put to the loss of tearing down and removing these buildings It may be that if the legislature passes this act it will provide for making good the losses caused by it.

FLUSHED THE SEWERS.—The recent rains have left most of the improved streets in splendid condition, the loose dirt having been washed off, while the stone cross-walks are absolutely clean. Unimproved streets, however, are well nigh impassable on account of soft mud. From a sanitary point of view the greatest benefit from the rain in Portland is the flushing of the sewers So much rain fell, and so strong was the suck from the river, that the water rushed through like a torrent and cleaned the sewers perfectly Rain is much cheaper and far more effective for this purpose than fire-engines

DEATH OF MRS. NEWBY.—The widow of the late W T Newby, of Yamhill county, died at Salem on Friday. She was born in Madisonville, Ky , in 1824. Her maiden name was Sarah A. Gray. She was married in Missouri in 1841 and came to Oregon with her husband in 1843. In 1844 they settled in Yamhill. Mr. Newby died in October, 1884. Mrs. Newby was buried yesterday at McMinnville beside the remains of her late husband.

BIG 5-CENT BUSINESS.—Jim Mahone was over from his ranch in Muleheaven a few days since, says the Grant County News, and states that he has embarked in a new enterprise He stretches a wire screen across the prairie, the said screen having meshes only large enough for a Johnrabbitt to poke his head through. Then dogs and men roundup the festive Johnrabbitt. He gets frightened, and in his efforts to escape his pursuers runs his head through the holes in the screen, when his 8½x9 ears flop forward and he is caught. Then with jackknives the hunters go on the outside of the screen and scalp the captives. The ears are turned over to the county clerk, who pays a bounty of 5 cents per pair for them. The rabbits are turned loose in the hope that they will in a short time grow a new pair of 5-cent ears.

ON ACCOUNT OF THE BEAUTIFUL BRAND.—The ship Eudora, loading flour for Hong kong, will complete her cargo on Wednesday. She will carry away 1900 tons, and Kwong Lung Chung, the charterers, are shipping this lot of flour as an experiment, and if the Chinese like Oregon flour as well as the California article, this shipment will be followed by others. It seems that one brand of California flour, made at Stockton, has found great favor in China. The sacks bear a representation of the Goddess Ceres, printed in green, and the flour is known among the Chinese as the "green girl flour " It now remains for our millers to put the portrait of some green Oregon girl on their sacks, and if they get a better looking picture than the California one they may get away with the market.

DEATH OF MRS A. N KING.—Yesterday morning at 12 10 o clock Mrs Melinda King, wife of Amos N King, died of rheumatism of the heart at her home on B street Mrs King's maiden name was Fuller. She was born in Ohio November 24, 1827, and was 59 years old at the time of her death She came across the plains to Oregon in 1845 and in the following year was married to Mr King in Washington county In 1848 she moved to this city and for many years lived in a log cabin to the back of the present homestead Mrs King has four children living, two daughters and two sons, all of whom are married One daughter and one son are living in this city and the others in Washington county

ROUGH STAGING.—Mr Snow, while traveling by stage in Southern Oregon last week, encountered a snowstorm while crossing the Siskiyous which detained the stage, containing the driver, himself, a woman and a little girl, forty eight hours The two latter would have nearly perished with cold had it not been that Mr Snow loaned them a warm buffalo robe which he had with him to wrap them up in. During all that time none of the party had anything to eat. It must have been more sadly real than softly romantic when the snow was falling and blowing and drifting, and the driver could not see which way to go amid the bluffs and chasms.

FORGER ARRESTED.—Last Friday evening Detective Sullivan, in charge of Thiel's agency in this city, arrested George Parker at Seattle The prisoner is now in jail awaiting a requisition from the governor Parker is wanted for a forgery of a draft of $10,000 in New York, committed about six weeks ago on his employer, a broker named Sundburg He arrived in Seattle Wednesday and registered under his true name at the Occidental. FALSE ALARM.

Last evening some one came down town after an officer in great haste, and stated that somebody was dying in a vacant house on Sixth street between H and I He said he heard awful groans that struck terror to his heart Officer Robertson went back with the man, expecting to find some one in the last throes of dissolution, and of course was a little "shaky" As they neared the premises an awful groan rang out upon the night air like the wailing of a lost soul It took nerve to enter the house under such circumstances, but it would not do to allow a human being to die all alone so in they went. But they found no "stiff," they found something of a lively character. They entered the door single file. As they did so an immense hog made a dash past them, and tried to skip between the legs of the two Both rode double on the hog's back into the street, where they were bucked off in a mud puddle

In the latter case was decided the important question of the right of the Northern Pacific Railroad company to leave one town out in the cold for the purpose of building up another

YAKIMA CITY VS NORTH YAKIMA

The opinion delivered to-day in the supreme court by Justice Hoyt was a very able one and as it necessarily pertains to Yakima City some extracts from the opinion may be found interesting

The learned judge, after stating that the action was one to compel the Northern Pacific Railroad company to furnish a depot and other facilities for the transaction of business at Yakima City, then goes on to state that in January, 1885 the road was completed to the above place and was accepted by certain commissioners appointed by the president. For a short time the railroad company maintained an agency there for business but soon after withdrew the same in favor of a point four miles beyond Yakima City.

The opinion says "At this time Yakima City was the oldest town and largest business center on the Cascade branch of said railroad between the Columbia and Puget sound It was the only town of any importance in Yakima county It had been for years the county seat of said county, and was one of the places in the Fourth judicial district where causes arising under the constitution and laws of the United States could be heard and determined It numbered 500 permanent inhabitants had several churches, flourishing public and private schools, a large number of business buildings and many beautiful homes, * * * * while North Yakima was simply a town upon paper with no inhabitants save a few speculators who, being in the secrets of the company, had located there for the purpose of profiting by the building up of a town at the expense of Yakima City and its pioneers many of whom had for years endured the hardships of frontier life in the hope that with the advent of a railroad such prosperity would be brought upon them as would repay every sacrifice * * *

From the time the company moved its agency for the transaction of its business to North Yakima, it not only refused to stop any of its trains at Yakima City, but it also refused to stop any of its trains there at any time or for any purpose and this compelled all passengers therefore to pass directly through to North Yakima and then to turn the four miles as best they could and all freight had to pay tribute to North Yakima in like manner * * * *

It appears however that owing to the failure of the railroad company thus to stop its trains the town had been to a certain extent depopulated Still at the time of the trial the town contained two hotels, twenty seven dwelling houses thirteen business houses one flouring mill public and private schools and a resident population of 150 It further appears that the said company furnished no facilities of any kind available to said town excepting at the said town of North Yakima * * * In the absence of legislation providing other means for regulating and controlling the matter we have no doubt of the power of a court of general jurisdiction in a proper case to compel a railroad to extend to the public proper facilities for the transaction of business This we deem to be a necessary incident to the character of a railroad and the rights it possesses, and the relation which it occupies to the public Without this control a railroad might be so managed as to be a public improvement only in name while to all intents and purposes so far as results were concerned it would be a private road from the benefits of which the mass of the public could with out reason be, at the pleasure of the company entirely excluded

We think that in reason this right of control is fully established and if we investigate it in the light of authority our conclusion will be assured for which the cases upon the subject are not numerous Yet those that have been cited by counsel for appellee and others which we have examined are of such authority and so conclusive in argument that we unhesitatingly accept them as the true exposition of the law upon the subject. * * It is true that a town of 500 inhabitants is not a large town, but when we take into consideration the fact that this town was the largest one for a distance of hundreds of miles and that by its age and enterprise it had established itself as the center of business for the entire region and grown to even that size without the aid of any railroad it is clear to the moral as well as to the legal perception of every one that it was entitled to be fairly treated by the railroad and to have extended to it the facilities usually given to towns of like size thus situated and we are satisfied that there is not an other instance on record where a town as remote from others as this one, of even half its size has been reached and passed through by a railroad and then had all facilities denied it at the will of the railroad company * * * *

"Upon general principles, then, it was the duty of the railroad company to have furnished the required facilities at Yakima city and its failure to do so was a moral and legal wrong * * *

"We think the court below committed no error and it follows that the judgment must be affirmed with costs and the cause remanded for further proceedings and it is so ordered

The entire opinion when published will be read with interest, especially by those residing in Yakima county although indeed the entire territory is interested in this important question

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

GOVERNOR AND JUDGE.

Continuation of an Interesting Colloquy—Some Remarks by the Governor.

Yesterday a representative of THE OREGONIAN supposing that Gov Pennoyer had returned to his home to stay over Sunday, called to inquire for him He was told that his excellency was in and was immediately ushered into his presence Conversation ensued on several topics, and finally the reporter asked the governor if he had read Judge Deady s letter in THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN "Oh, yes," said the governor "I always read THE OREGONIAN " "Would you like to favor us with a statement in reply " persisted the reporter "I don t think," replied the governor, "that I would care to make any formal reply and yet perhaps, it is incumbent on me to say a word or so " He then proceeded to talk and the reporter set down, as nearly as he could, the substance of his remarks, as follows

The judge is as faulty in his facts as he is sometimes in his law The nomination of Greeley did not strike my 'wayward fancy ' I did not like that nomination and on election day I delayed voting until about the close of the polls and then Shubrick Norris and myself voted and as Senator Bigbin would put it immediately adjourned and contributed to the internal revenue in order to make the "crow set well Nor was Butler my candidate at the last election I endorsed the Indianapolis platform on which he was nominated because it declared in favor of an income tax and if he had not repudiated the platform I would have voted for the platform, through him just as I shall at the next election vote with the party that favors that absolutely necessary measure Parties are nothing, principles are everything And the judge is as forgetful about his own past record as he is about mine He says that he had maintained the Webster doctrine long before he knew me He supported as much as he could Buchanan in 1856 and received his appointment from him, and therefore of course endorsed the democratic platform on which Buchanan was elected, which upheld the principles laid down in the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of 1798 The judge is somewhat forgetful, and I will pardon him He says that the state courts in the very nature of things have a right to declare a law of the legislature void This is remarkable language for a jurist. In a government of a written constitution the several departments get their power from the letter of the grant therein and not from the nature of things And I will place myself under sufficient obligations in case the judge can find any warrant in the state or federal constitution or in the common law empowering a court to declare void an act of the legislature by the 1st of April to furnish him for the following three months the biggest kind of a dinner each day that he can order The judge is also unfortunate in his allusion to the bridge question, as it recalls to mind the fact that an injunction against a bridge would stick in his court so long as the railroad companies opposed a bridge and would never stick after the railroad companies concluded to build a bridge The judge is right for once when he declares that I will accept from the federal government "appropriations for his creek"—the Columbia river I am glad to find the judge correct in even one instance

The contract for carrying the English and American mails from Port Townsend to Victoria, and return six times a week will be let in June The O R & N company now has the contract, but it is understood the Washington company will put in a tender to perform the service

In temporarily retiring from the Whatcom Reveille, Mr Nicklin says "Having become wealthy through my connection with the Reveille during the past three years, I have leased my interest in the concern to Mr Will D Jenkins for one year, and will devote my time to other business affairs for the present If anything mean has appeared in the paper to date charge it to me if anything good, credit it to my partner, but in future lick Jenkins should any item appear which you don't like It is with regret that I retire from the Reveille to exchange glory and the jingle of iron dollars for the quiet of a Nooksack farm, where I shall this summer sit beneath the shadow of my own vinemaple and fir tree but the reform rulings of Mr. Sparks have rendered it necessary, that I may more royally entertain the special land agents who call to cancel my country residence."

Union Howard Robb, who is connected with the Estop engineering party at the Northern Pacific front is in the city visiting his parents. He reports that the entire working force near the summit is well nigh buried in snow. Track laying on the western extension has been suspended for a few days awaiting the completion of a trestle, but will probably be resumed the first of the week. The work, of course, progresses under great difficulties, owing to the heavy fall of snow. The track layers are compelled to spend a large part of the time in clearing the roadway, and are enabled to advance only about half a mile a day. A cut at the summit on the line of the switchback, thirty-five feet deep, is drifted entirely full. The parties who came down waded through snow which was up to their necks in some places.

The opera of the "Mikado" will soon be given in this city by an amateur troupe, and, from the pains taken in its rehearsal, it will undoubtedly be a success. The costumes to be used originally cost $3000 and have been rented for the occasion. The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the purchase of a pipe organ for the proposed Episcopal church in this city which will probably be erected during the coming summer

The argument in the district court in the case of the Postal Telegraph Company vs. The Northern Pacific Railroad Company has been concluded and it is probable the decision will be given in a couple of weeks

An application was made to the supreme court a few days ago for a writ of habeas corpus so as to admit to bail one George H. Miller who is accused of murder committed near Seattle last year After hearing argument the writ was denied

Prophecies that can do no Good

Chicago Tribune.

It may be only a fancy but since the publication of Prof Proctor's prediction that the earth will be entirely destitute of water in 11 000 000 years there has seemed to be a bluer tint noticeable in all the milk that comes to market. Such prophecies only serve to awaken needless alarm and can do no possible good

Change in the President's Manner

Washington Cor St. Louis Globe-Democrat

There is a marked change of late in the president s manner toward representative men of his party For a long time he was businesslike and often brusque with democratic congressmen who came to see him He gave time grudgingly He was impatient with those who differed from him Instead of the stand up reception, the "Well, what is it?" manner, and the dismissal after a hurried presentation of business, democratic leaders are now asked to come at off hours they are invited to sit down, they are questioned they are consulted, and their views as to various features of party policy are heard with manifest respect. This change in the president is almost startling in its suddenness. It has come since his rheumatic attack and the only fear of those who have witnessed it personally is that it may not last beyond the next national convention
